Those are just a few words written about me to give you an idea The depths of darkness I've seen. All in the hopes of living like a queen. Born a free spirit held down by none, just living life on the edge having fun. Life on the run ducking and dodging the feds one by one. As the dark cloud of addiction takes over my soul, my story is unbelievable almost sounds like fiction. As the normal civilian lives in true bliss, not knowing the evil that lurks in their home. In a city of sin, power and fame....I earned my name, a true lioness can never be tamed. Waking up in a prison cell thinking lord what have I done, I was just trying to have fun in the beautiful hot dago sun. Violence and terror was the life I chose, for what reason nobody knows. sometimes I think....damn what a fool. I gave up on love, convinced I was damned by the Gods above. This life had its perks, pure adrenaline pumping through my veins for the life in the fast lane, so far from sane. The day to day life always subject to change, always blood, sweat and tears, faces rearranged. Better know the definition of respect cuz their are secrets to be kept. Watch out or you will get left when the sounds of police sirens and helicopters surround. In the eye of the storm you'd be amazed what was found, a part of ur soul that is no longer bound. I have no regrets, no karmic debts. I did my time, lived a life of crime and here I am to say I've lived another day with my head held high because I didn't die, fighting the demons that lie lie lie. What some people don't know is that under immense heat and pressure diamonds are made. With lessons of the soul there are stories to be told of great strength and courage and wisdom to behold. With that comes sobriety and dreams come to be. Without all that misery then I wouldnt be me! To wake up and realize this path was destined to be. For I am a teacher, a healer, a glimmer of hope that I wouldn't be if it weren't for the dope. While sitting and reflecting upon my new life, I felt more than ever love like a knife buried in my chest just like the rest. As I woke from my slumber at 30 years old all I can remember is love being so cold. What is life without love, dreams of Bonnie and Clyde my partner in crime. Feelings of fear of dying alone. Then all of a sudden on one fated day, I couldn't believe it I found my soulmate! He came on his white horse to take me away, why he chose me I can't even say. He stitched up the pieces of my broken heart, says I am an angel who choose a hard life, to heal all the anger suffering and strife. And here we are today so madly in love living The life and soon to be his wife. As I stand here today I am proud to say I have a priceless story....who's to say how many lives I might save! To be continued.....

Hi, everyone! I'm a professional, experienced model based in Phoenix, AZ. I have a fun, outgoing personality and love being around people. Modeling gives me confidence and satisfy my artistic side. I enjoy themed shoots and willing to pose up to art/glam nudes. I want to thank all of the photographers I have worked with, and I look forward to working with new photographers in the future. I love all of my family, friends and photographers. I wouldn't be where I am today without them.

Hey my name is Kaitlyn Elizabeth, but most people just call me 'Kate'. I was born in Arizona, but was adopted at birth by a loving family in New York, where I was raised. As an only child, and the only girl living on my street, I grew up as one of the boys; playing video games, reading comic books, riding dirt bikes, and giving my mom a heart attack every time I refused to wear a helmet. As a result I became a tomboy, and to this day I'm still referred to as 'one of the boys'.

School always came easy to me- especially math and science. After high school, I went on to receive a bachelors degree in mathematics with a minor in computer programming. My ambition is to complete my masters degree in secondary education and teach middle school math in New York City. In the meantime, I have held down various jobs, including: driving an ice cream truck (swirl cones with chocolate sprinkles were my favorite!), designing web sites, tutoring math, and waitressing at a local diner.

When I'm not serving burgers or nose-deep in a book, I spend a lot of my spare time in the gym and at the pool hall. I even have a tattoo of my favorite comic villain Harley Quinn sitting on an 8-ball holding a pool cue. All-in-all, I'm an outgoing, bubbly girl with a number of crazy interests that usually leave people wanting to know more...

Having never visited Salt Lake City, Utah personally, the name alone conjures up imagery of historic black and white photographs of droves of tourists flocking to the buoyant waters of the Great Salt Lake. Except for the tourists, the landscape seems barren and dull, but what could one expect when looking at a body of water with one of the highest concentration of salt water found anywhere in the world?

I imagine that these mental images could hardly be accurate of a modern Salt Lake City so I looked up some more recent photos. To my surprise, I found beautiful modern architecture, majestic neo-Gothic temples, and a glorious City skyline perfectly situated against the backdrop of the Wasatch Mountain Range.

Salt Lake City boasts a population of about 200,000 people at its core, but the greater metropolitan area contains a populous of a little over one million. Although the 17th Utah Territorial Legislature dropped the word "Great" from the city's official name in 1868, at Model Promotions, we believe we have found a compelling reason to utilize the word "great" when describing one of its citizens, Raquel De Haan.

I've spent a few weeks now chatting with Raquel over Facebook Messenger and I've been granted pretty much unfettered, unfiltered access to two of her Facebook Team Pages and her personal Facebook page. In that short time, if I could describe Raquel in one word I would choose the word tenacity. She possesses a highly driven, competitive, can-do attitude that endears her with a specific kind of charm. Of course, she exudes physical beauty, but given an opportunity to open up to her on a personal level, you will find an inner beauty as well. If that doesn't make her attractive enough, she also follows the NFL, passionately! Make a joke about her Cowboys, as I once did, and you will be put in your place.

So lets just rerun the countdown with some "back of the napkin math" here. Positive attitude + driven + competitive + drop dead sexy + NFL fan / v Cowboys Fan = a gal I want to support, vote for, and see succeed. I'm really quite disappointed that I've never met her personally, even though I already know that I'm going to pay for the "divided by the square root of being a Cowboys Fan" jab in some not-so-subtle way.

Having just competed in the IBMS competition (the jury is still out on that one) and simultaneously winning the (ahem) coveted Model Promotions Featured Model contest, she is already pursuing Modelmania this month and keeping her team engaged and warmed up for the finals of Miss Infinity 14 2016, which resumes on Dec 22nd. You can bet we will continue to see her posting regularly in the Model Promotions group in months to come.

In addition, Raquel has previously been published in Divine Temptations magazine and is Miss May 2016 for Playmates Calendar. She has been modeling her whole life but got pretty serious about it around a year ago. Now, she is pursuing all types of modeling with her new agency.

Raquel is represented currently by The Ajaini Agency. The Ajaini Agency is a full service modeling/talent management agency based out of New Mexico but servicing clients in multiple locations. The Ajaini Agency has placed models in TV shows and Feature Films, including The Avengers, Wild Hogs, Gamer, Lone Ranger, Lone Survivor, The Eye, Call Saul, Breaking Bad, and Killer Women.

Now, I'd like to go back to that word, tenacity... If you are connected to Raquel on her Facebook Pages, you will notice very quickly that she is relentless at pursuing her dream of becoming a successful model. She posts frequently, she rarely let's a comment go by without personally thanking you for it. She makes you feel like a valuable part of her team. Based on a single post she made a couple weeks ago I had a hunch about what dedicates her so thoroughly. So I asked Raquel what she would say her biggest life lesson would be. My suspicion had been correct. Raquel has had to battle cancer in her life. With current hopes that the cancer is in remission she has, through her struggle, been given a small but valuable gift. Insight... The insight that life is too fleeting and precious to waste. So, the very life that most people would take for granted, Raquel is grabbing by the horns with the intention to get all she can from it. And that, I would say, is her defining quality.
